

Conversations now speaks ten languages

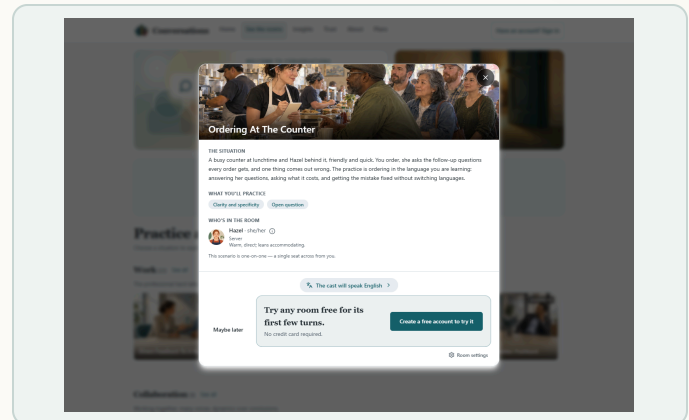

A language practice shelf, 24 new rooms, and a free sample of every room.

Practice in the language you choose

Conversations is a private place to practice the conversations people find hardest, with up to five fictional people who hold their own positions and react to each other. The cast in every room now speaks one of ten languages, 24 new rooms take the catalogue to 100, and anyone can try any room free for its first few turns.

The catalogue: eight shelves, 100 rooms, a Language practice shelf

What is new

Ten languages, one room

Pick the language before you start or change it mid-conversation, in any room. Every persona keeps their own voice; the Coach and the debrief stay in English.

A language practice shelf

Twelve everyday rooms, from ordering at the counter to keeping up in a fast group, played in any language, with a Coach that tells you what was said.

Controls back, titles clear

Change the challenge, the heat, and the Coach's style at any time in Room settings. Thirty-one rooms are retitled so the title says what the room is.

SITUATIONS

Eight shelves across work and life, including language practice. 100 rooms plus open practice.

PEOPLE

Managers, peers, partners, parents, friends, doctors, and neighbors. 52 AI people; up to five in a room.

PRACTICE

Hands-free, push-to-talk voice, and text, in ten languages

ACCESS

A free sample of every room. A room pass or membership opens full practice.

A 7-day room pass is $2.99, one time. Membership is $19 a month; founding access is $50 for the first three months, then $16.65 a month while continuously active, with a 30-day money-back guarantee on membership. Available in the United States and Canada; prices are in US dollars.

"People do not all practice a hard conversation in English. The room now speaks the language you choose, and the Coach stays with you in English."
